Welcome to the 18th annual Atlanta Celebrates Photography Festival!

Aren't you continually amazed by how photography brings people together? This is true even when the picture depicts a society unraveling. Photography's power is nothing short of astounding. Think about it... in the past few months we've seen photography distill the complex narratives of our time into single images (like Jonathan Bachman's Baton Rouge protest image). We've seen photographs that wash over us with awe (think NASA), photos that leave us breathless, make us smile (that sunset pic you took or the one of your cat, perhaps?) or fill us with profound sadness (I'm reminded of Nick Brandt's latest project). We've seen photographs that mark pivotal moments in our nation's history, and by that same token, I've held photographs in my hand that mark pivotal moments in my personal history.

I suppose the ACP Festival is a manifestation of these very ideas—that photography has a the strong and distinct power to bring people together. Take a moment and thumb through this Festival Guide. Every single event in the Festival represents someone's effort to communicate with YOU through photography's universal language. Every single event in the Festival presents an opportunity to engage and become enriched.

Photography is one thing we'll never outgrow. It's consistently fascinating! We all perceive the power in making and sharing images, because the energy surrounding photography today is palpable. I can feel it. I bet you can, too. You are holding it in your hand.

Executive Director, ACP

The Show Goes On

Working behind-the-scenes to increase visibility of Georgia-based photographers

Although they host one of Atlanta's most popular festivals each October, the members of Atlanta Celebrates Photography frequently find themselves fielding the question, "What do you do when it isn't festival time?" As it turns out, quite a lot.

As a nonprofit collective devoted to promoting and propagating passions for photography, the ACP team is busy year-round, day in and day out. Whether the members are speaking to groups about various aspects of photography, acting as liaisons between agencies and the creatives in their Rolodex, or teaming up on projects with other organizations, they're constantly engaged in efforts to put photography in front of the public.

"We are advocates, always looking for ways to support photographers and connect them to opportunities, whether it's opportunity that originates through us or a partner we're working with," says Amy Miller, ACP's executive director.

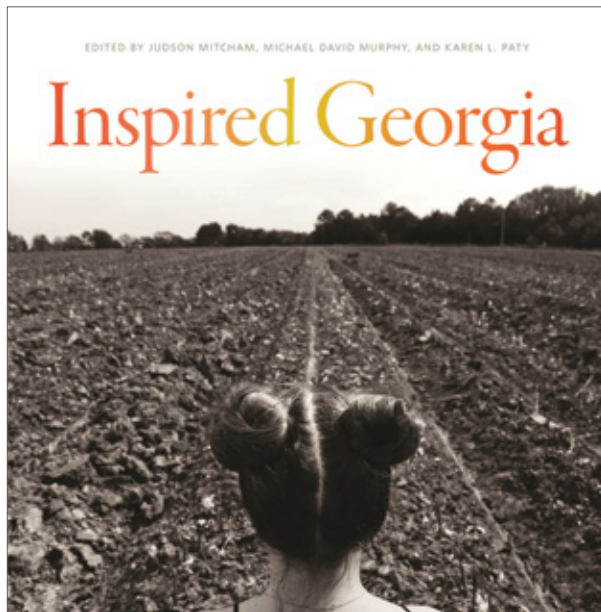

Thanks to ACP's many collaborative public installations, the Loudermilk Center's walls are graced with the works of notable Georgia photographers; tens of thousands enjoy The FENCE exhibition on The Belt-Line's Eastside Trail; and photos of Georgia's natural wonders line the international terminal at Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport. And though this exhibit at the world's busiest airport represents a tremendous global moment for ACP, it is only a fraction of the organization's global outreach.

Since November 2015, ACP has been the lead organization of an international consortium of photo festivals called Festival of Light, which houses about 20 member festivals from 15 countries. "Photography is universal," Miller says. "There's no language barrier, and it's a great way to communicate, [especially] when language can be a problem."

That universality and spirit is epitomized in the unprecedented photography publication Inspired Georgia, due this fall. Published by the University of Georgia Press in concert with the Georgia Council of the Arts, the hybrid creative project combines fine-art photography and works of poetry chosen by the state's poet laureate, Judson Mitcham. "We've been working on it with them for a year," says Michael David Murphy, ACP's digital director and one of the book's editors. "We did a state-wide call for entries." The book will be a token given to visiting dignitaries. And for the city's strongest photography advocates, that is pure poetry.

Show And Tell

Submissions to ACP's #PhotosWeLove series capture how and why one photograph alters your existence

ACP's exciting #PhotosWeLove project, hosted on Medium, gives professional photographers, writers, artists, and everyday enthusiasts a platform to express how a photograph changed their lives. These stories are about the solitary moment when you realized a photo is more than a combination of composition, contrast, and lighting; it's a tool for telling a story, and in turn, your own story.

Launched in May, the ongoing series is an attempt to dissect the pull-out moments in a sea of pictures. "Photography is the language of the world right now; sharing photos is how people communicate," says ACP Program Manager Michael David Murphy. "We have a culture that's about faving and liking and sharing, but there's so little discussion about how and why we love particular photographs."

Murphy's own essay ponders the eternal conundrum of Photo-shop—that incredulosity that something shown in a photo truly happened (hint: it did). Meanwhile, a highbrow submission from Emory University professor Jason Francisco examines a photograph's ability to both slice and perpetuate time, creating a simultaneous sense of pause and permanence.

Others consider the meta qualities of self-portraiture and wax poetic about personal discovery, the ecstasy an image can rouse or how photography can be a conduit for love, as with local photographer Billy Howard's musings on the muse (Édouard Boubat's Lella).

Several contributors—such as Jona Frank, via Fall Line Press—express a fascination with gaze, while still others draw connections between divergent art forms, as with Howard's essay on Diane Arbus' Identical Twins, which examines the way, like a song, an image can imprint the soul.

ACP Executive Director Amy Miller's own essay tackles the topic of Paul Caponigro's White Deer Running. This image embodies an eerie and phantasmal energy, but is also gripping in the sense that it represents how photographs can be like ghosts that follow you through life, reappearing repeatedly.

Everyone is encouraged to submit a musing about a single photograph; you need not be a blogger, writer, photographer, or even a member of the creative field. And you need not live in Atlanta. You just need to recognize how a picture moves you.

Submit your own essay directly to Michael David Murphy, the content moderator, at michael@acpinf.org or by publishing to Medium and tagging it #PhotosWeLove.

One-on-One

Ahead of his exhibition, distinguished photographer Duane Michals shares his life and vision behind the lens.

Duane Michals began his career in graphic design for magazines, then ventured into photography as a self-taught pursuit, using inexpensive cameras and rudimentary staging. A legend who's worked for Esquire, Mademoiselle, and Vogue, exhibiting at such venues as the Museum of Modern Art and Musée de l'Élysée, Michals' subjects have included celebrities, everyday people, and fellow artists such as Andy Warhol, Jasper Johns, and Willem de Kooning. Although he says he much prefers publications to exhibitions, he's excited for his exhibition, which runs from October 7 to December 3, at Jackson Fine Art. In anticipation of the show—and his keynote lecture on October 6 at the Woodruff Arts Center—we talked to maestro Michals about his prolific career.

You've had a lifelong interest in writing and literature, incorporating storytelling into your photographic work.

The way I started was contrary to the paradigm of photography during the '60s and '70s. The only game in town was reportage photography. It was customary to go out and photograph reality on the streets. The "decisive moment" was the rule of the day. But I wanted to have the moment before and the moment after the decisive moment, so I stretched it out.

In this day and age, it's hard to be truly original, but you did it. What compelled you despite the criticism you faced?

My work is introspective, but photography by nature is extroverted and voyeuristic. You walk around photographing other people's houses, everybody's else's lives ... and these are things we know nothing about. Our own truth is the only thing we know with any validity. If the work has any validity, people respond to the ideas. I'm interested in turning the glove inside out. I'm the other point of view.

So what inspired these new ventures later in life?

Creative energy never tires. People define themselves so narrowly; I'm rather strange; at 84, I feel the way I've always felt, even after open-heart surgery. It didn't deter me; I'm busier than ever. You always have to reinvent yourself, even if there's no audience. I have three books coming up. It's ridiculous to put an age limit on these things. We don't have something typed on our ass that says "use up before 2017." Humans don't have a shelf life.

ACP PUBLIC ART: THE FENCE

Through November 1 @ Atlanta BeltLine's Eastside Trail

ACP is pleased to once again present the FENCE, an outdoor photography exhibition featuring over 40 photographers from around the world, who, through 6 images or less, are telling compelling stories that reach across cultural boundaries and geographical lines. The FENCE series originated 4 years ago with United Photo Industries in New York and occurs annually. For the last three years, Atlanta Celebrates Photography (ACP) has been a part of the FENCE project by exhibiting the 700+ foot long photo exhibition (selected by 40 jurors from a global call for entries) in partnership with Art on the Atlanta BeltLine, and with generous support of the National Endowment for the Arts.

This year, the FENCE will be exhibited simultaneously in five locations: Brooklyn Bridge Park, Brooklyn, NY; Rose F. Kennedy Greenway, Boston, MA; The Houston Center for Photography, Houston, TX; The Santa Fe Railyard Art Park, Santa Fe, NM; and on the Atlanta BeltLine's Eastside Trail.

ACP's acclaimed public art program typically features temporary projects in a variety of diverse locations throughout Atlanta. It is significant in its ability to reach beyond the audience of traditional arts venues and expand the way audiences consider lens-based media.

THE GEORGIA FENCE

Across the state, through December

New for 2016!

Drawing on inspiration from the FENCE and also in collaboration with United Photo Industries, Atlanta Celebrates Photography has created a Georgia-based photographers version of the FENCE. The Georgia FENCE was juried from a state-wide call for entries by Maria Kelly of the High Museum of Art, Carson Sanders and Taylor Curry of Ain't Bad Magazine, Mary Stanley of Mary Stanley Studio, Alan Rothschild of the Do Good Fund, Elan Buchen of the Atlanta BeltLine and Amy Miller of ACP. The exhibit features 10 notable Georgia photographers presented in a 250-foot long exhibition of outstanding photography that loosely fits the themes of: home, streets, people, creatures, nature and play.

The unprecedented Georgia FENCE will travel the state this fall promoting the work of our outstanding talent. The Georgia FENCE will be featured in Columbus, GA in partnership with Columbus State University and Uptown Columbus; in Thomasville, GA in partnership with the Thomasville Center for the Arts; in Savannah, GA in partnership with Art Rise Savannah; and in Gainesville, GA in partnership with The Arts Council.

This project is possible through the generous support of the Forward Arts Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The approximate dates and locations for the Georgia FENCE are at right. For more information and updates to this exhibition's locations and travel schedule, please visit: acpinfo.org/programs/public\_art.html

ACP SPECIAL EXHIBITION: "TEEN SPIRIT" POP-UPS

Coming to a surprise location near you! Throughout October, be on the lookout for ACP volunteers to appear at various ACP featured events with a mini-exhibition of the incredibly moving writing and portraiture that's resulted from the 2016 season of ACP's Teen Spirit Program.

Entering its 5th year, ACP's collaborative program with inpatient teens at Scottish Rite and Egleston hospitals has impacted participants beyond everyone's expectations. Some very special volunteer photographers, led by ACP co-founder Corinne Adams, have been leading teens to explore their identity (including, or in spite of their diagnosis) through writing and photographic self-portraiture.

Special thanks to the Mary Alice and Bennett Brown Foundation, the Child Life Specialists at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta, Bill Boling, Showcase Photo & Video and Digital Arts Studio.

Be alerted to "Teen Spirit" popups via twitter: @ACPtweets or subscribe to our email list for weekly program updates throughout the festival: ACPinfo.org

ACP LECTURE SERIES PRESENTS: DUANE MICHALS

October 6 @ Rich Theatre, Woodruff Arts Center

LECTURE

Thursday, October 6, 7pm

Duane Michals (b. 1932) is considered an innovator in the field of photography since the 1960's when, consumed with the photograph's capabilities and limitations for storytelling, Michals appropriated the effect of cinema by sequencing his images. His most known images are those on which he has written text. Michal's text does not serve to define one's understanding of a photograph, but rather to add a personal dimension, poetic tension and often humor. The photographer's hand is evident in so much of his work, from the creation of sequences, to writing text on his prints, to more recent projects involving hand-painting on photographs and tintypes.

Over the last 50 years, Michals' work has been celebrated, honored, collected and exhibited internationally. He has been honored with a CAPS Grant, a National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship, the International Center of Photography Infinity Award for Art, the Foto España International Award, and an Honorary Doctorate of Fine Arts from Montserrat College of Art, Beverly, Mass. A dozen monographs of his work have been published.

Presented in partnership with Jackson Fine Art in support of Michal's exhibition (see event #61). With generous sponsorship from the Woodruff Arts Center and Mailchimp.

This program is free, however seating is limited and must be reserved through the Woodruff Arts Center Box Office at 404-733-5000. Limit 2 tickets per person. Tickets to the Museum are sold separately.

ACP LECTURE SERIES PRESENTS: BALDWIN LEE

October 13 @ MOCA GA

LECTURE

Thursday, October 13, exhibition and reception at 6pm, lecture at 7pm.

Introduction of Baldwin Lee by Mark Steinmetz

After earning a bachelor of science from MIT, Baldwin Lee went on to study photography under Minor White at Yale. He first began to photograph the American South in the early 1980's while on a cross-country photo trip with former Yale classmate Philip Lorca-DiCorcia. In 1982, Lee moved to Knoxville, TN, to start the photography program at the University of Tennessee, where he worked for 30 years. During that time, Lee wrote a manuscript In Consideration of Photographing in the South and produced several major bodies of work.

Lee is the recipient of a Guggenheim Fellowship and two NEA fellowships. His work is included in the collections of such institutions as the Museum of Modern Art, the University of Michigan Museum of Art, the Yale University Art Gallery, the National Trust for Historic Preservation, and the Museum of the City of New York. In 2012, Lee had a retrospective exhibition at the Chrysler Museum in Norfolk, VA.

Surprisingly, his work is still largely unknown. Mark Steinmetz, notable Georgia-based photographer and also a Guggenheim Fellow, is a champion of Lee's work, and will introduce Baldwin Lee at this event. Mr. Lee will discuss his portfolio of images exhibited at MOCA GA, as part of an exhibition of selections from the Do Good Fund Collection.

Presented in partnership with the Do Good Fund in support of their exhibition (see event #25), with sponsorship by MOCA GA and Mailchimp.

ACP KNOWLEDGE SERIES PRESENTS: IT ALL STARTED WITH THOMAS ASKEW

October 18 @ SCADshow

Tues, Oct. 18, doors at 6pm, lecture at 7pm.

Thomas E. Askew was Atlanta's first African American professional photographer. He began his career in the 1880's and produced many of the studio portraits included in W.E.B. DuBois' The American Negro Exhibit, which premiered to nearly 50 million visitors at the 1900 Paris Exhibition. Askew's portraits ennobled his subjects: men to be admired, women to be respected – a pivotal moment in the use of photography by African Americans as a powerful way to articulate a self-defined image.

Atlanta Celebrates Photography and ArtsATL have the privilege to assemble a collection of academics, scholars and photographers with a focus in African American photography to discuss the legacy of Thomas Askew and the importance of reincorporating and preserving diverse perspectives into our cultural memory.

Panelists:

- Deborah Willis, Ph.D.
Contemporary artist, photographer, historian, author and educator
- Pellom McDaniels III, Ph.D.
Curator of African American Collections at Emory's Stuart A. Rose MARBL Library
- Pam Henman
Marketing and Public Relations Manager for the Historic Oakland Foundation

Inspired Georgia

ACP SPOTLIGHT ON LOCAL TALENT: "INSPIRED GEORGIA"

October 26 @ Westside Cultural Arts Center

EXHIBITON, RECEPTION, READING & BOOK SIGNING

Wed, Oct. 26, 6:30 - 9pm

In celebration of the photographers and poets featured in the limited edition coffee table book Inspired Georgia, we invite you to join us for an exhibition, poetry reading, book signing and party!

Inspired Georgia is unique in that it is presented as parallel anthologies that overlap and intertwine the visions and voices of eighty-five exceptional Georgia photographers and poets.

The event will begin with exhibition viewing and a cocktail reception for the artists at 6:30. A poetry reading featuring award-winning poets Judson Mitcham and Natasha Trethaway will take place at 7:30, followed by a book signing and merriment!

Inspired Georgia is a co-publication with Georgia Council for the Arts, Georgia Poet Laureate Judson Mitcham, Atlanta Celebrates Photography, Georgia Humanities, the National Endowment for the Arts, and is published by UGA Press. The project was fueled by a shared desire to honor Georgia as a nexus of creativity.

ACP LECTURE SERIES PRESENTS: LALLA ESSAYDI

October 27 @ High Museum of Art

LECTURE

Thurs. Oct. 27, 7pm

Lalla Essaydi (b. 1956) was born in Marrakech, Morocco. After multiple relocations, she eventually moved to Boston in 1996. She earned her BFA from Tufts University and a subsequent MFA at the School of the Museum of Fine Arts in 2003.

The experience of traditional Islamic life was fundamental in shaping Essaydi and her work focuses on Arabic female identity. The artist hand-paints Arabic calligraphy in henna on the fabric, bodies, and walls that inhabit her images. The effect is both exquisite and suffocating. Seeing through the lens of tradition and in a 19th century orientalist style, her photographs obliquely address the complex reality of the Arab female "In my art," Essaydi says, "I wish to present myself through multiple lenses -- as artist, as Moroccan, as Saudi, as traditionalist, as Liberal, as Muslim. In short, I invite the viewer to resist stereotypes." Essaydi's work has received worldwide critical acclaim, and is exhibited and collected globally.

Presented in partnership with Jackson Fine Art and the High Museum of Art, with sponsorship from Mailchimp.

This program is free, however seating is limited and must be reserved through the Woodruff Arts Center Box Office at 404-733-5000. Limit 2 tickets per person. Tickets to the Museum are sold separately.

Donate

Like what you see?

As a small nonprofit, ACP relies on the support of generous folks who understand the importance of arts and culture, and who want to live in a city where things like the ACP Festival exist.

We can't exist without your support! A donation in any amount says: "Hey, I want to experience ACP 2017!"

It's easy: Click "SUPPORT" at ACPinfo.org

Or mail a check to:

Atlanta Celebrates Photography
675 Drewry St. NE, Studio 4
Atlanta, GA 30306

ACP is a nonprofit 501(c)3, and your donation is tax deductible as allowed by law.

"ACP has helped to build and expose an even larger audience for the medium in our region. I think the wonderful inclusiveness of ACP's festival has unlocked the potential within photography to be both accessible and profound, and to speak to a wide range of audiences."

—Brett Abbott, Keough Family Curator of Photography & Head of Collections, High Museum of Art

Nature & Politics

OCTOBER 16, 2016-JANUARY 8, 2017

"I wanted to make photographs in which everything was so complex and detailed that you could look at them forever and never see everything."

—Thomas Struth

The exhibition is co-organized by the Museum Folkwang, Essen; Martin-Gropius-Bau, Berlin; and the High Museum of Art, Atlanta, in collaboration with the St. Louis Art Museum.

In Atlanta, this exhibition is made possible with support from Delta Air Lines and The Donald and Marilyn Keough Family. Additional support is provided by Friends of A Year in Photography and Friends of Photography.
