ACP is a proud member of Festival of Light, an international consortium of Photography Festivals

Welcome to the 19th annual Atlanta Celebrates Photography Festival!

I guess you could say I'm a fan of ACP. I first got involved 17 years ago as Gallery Director for the (greatly missed) Fay Gold Gallery. I remember planning our October photography exhibitions well in advance, making sure to hit it out of the park with blockbuster shows. I remember attending lectures and slowly becoming more aware of the other programming that ACP undertook. I participated as a Portfolio Reviewer, then as a Board member. In 2007, I came on as Executive Director.

It was only then that my fandom fully matured. I have the privilege of working with the most productive staff known to man to implement the deeply impactful programs that ACP is known for: working with high school students and teachers, inpatient teens at Scottish Rite and Egleston Children's Hospitals, museums, galleries, civic associations, other nonprofits and commercial businesses. In addition to our Festival programs, ACP has become lead organization in Festival of Light, an international consortium of photo festivals from around the globe. We have grown our reach to over 250,000 people!

We are thrilled to have been recently invited to partner on projects with Modern Atlanta, MARTA, the Atlanta Airport, the Atlanta Hawks - almost 100 collaborations to date across the metro area and counting! Of course, it is also quite an honor to be able to bring to you such internationally lauded talent as former White House photographer Pete Souza; Painter, photographer and political activist, Marilyn Minter; famed photographer Paul Graham, and the inimitable John Waters for this year's ACP Festival... but to be honest, my fandom for ACP does not stem from access to these A-listers, but centers around the fact that so many of our projects allow us to promote and celebrate the work of local photographers. I can't overstate the importance of this, and how honored I am to be surrounded by such amazing talent.

All in Good Fun

Filmmaker and visual artist, John Waters, brings together film and art in a cheeky, socially critical fashion.

Affectionately dubbed "the filthiest man alive" and "the pope of trash" for his string of shock and awe cult films like Pink Flamingos, Polyester and Hairspray, filmmaker John Waters has always been a savvy, incisive critic of social mores. It's only natural, then, that in addition to his prolific film career and work as a writer and actor, Waters has also carved out his own unique niche as a visual artist.

Though, speaking from his summer home in Provincetown, Massachusetts, the personable, chipper Waters is not prone to call himself one. "I think it's bragging if you say you're an artist. That's like saying I'm brilliant. Someone else has to say that about you." But art has always been on Waters' mind, ever since he was a kid in Baltimore and first saw Marcel Duchamp's "Nude Descending a Staircase," a piece that so rocked his young world he spent weeks imitating the painting on his own perambulations down the family staircase. Today, Waters is a passionate photography advocate and collector, of Diane Arbus, Mike Kelley and Fischli/Weiss among others. He'll offer insight into his deliciously irreverent view of photography in a slide show and talk at this year's inaugural Marquee speaker at the Atlanta Celebrates Photography Festival.

Waters' intertwined fascination with film and art is evident in his own artwork, a profoundly meta-endavor that often involves screen grabs taken from televised films and Waters' snarky manipulations of pop culture imagery.

Waters then adds his own cheeky comments or visual juxtapositions in clever re-contextualizations of the original images. For a series called "Beverly Hills John" Waters parodied our current plastic surgery obsession by warping his and other celebrity's faces into funhouse mirror versions of the plump-lip, taut-skin ideal. For his send-up of photography's one-time gold standard of artistic merit, "Cancel Ansel," cruise ships, chubby bathers and wind towers intrude on Ansel Adams' pristine black and white landscapes. And in his tongue-in-cheek "Visit Marfa" send-up in the style of a 1950s carnival poster Waters lampoons that art world mecca. But it's all in good fun. To Waters his work centered on the art world is more than anything, an homage. "I only always make fun of things that I really like."

Everyday Atlanta

Using photography to challenge preconceptions and celebrate the everyday life of communities.

In March 2012 Peter DiCampo and I were on assignment in Ivory Coast to report on the country's efforts to move beyond a decade of conflict and political crisis. It was an important moment for a place in a precarious position—a key-stone state of West Africa trying to find its way back to prominence. But despite the story's import, we had the overwhelming feeling that we were piling on yet another tale from Africa of ethnic strife, poverty, and violence. Weren't we reinforcing the perceptions everyone already had? Was that the most important thing we had to say about these people and that place? Using our cellphone cameras, we began to capture scenes that were all around us, ordinary scenes that were far more prevalent than those of crisis, and yet were seldom seen by the wider world. This was the start of Everyday Africa, and soon other photographers—African and Western alike—joined our ranks.

Everyday Africa inspired similar work all over the world, and now Everyday Atlanta has joined our photographic family, a nonprofit called The Everyday Projects. This past spring, led by Atlanta Celebrates Photography and a group of local photographers, we ran workshops at Tri-Cities High School in East Point and Riverwood International School in Sandy Springs, bringing students together to use photography to tell the stories of their communities.

The Everyday Atlanta team launched its Instagram feed this summer, while working on a curated exhibit to be displayed on a MARTA rail car that travels on the north-south line between the schools. Through the MARTA exhibit, the Instagram feed, and the workshops in local schools, Everyday Atlanta offers a new opportunity to reflect on assumptions and misconceptions, using photography to help us embrace our differences as we celebrate all that we have in common.

The Highlight Reel

For 40 years, celebrated photographer Scott Cunningham has brought the Atlanta Hawks to life behind the lens

ACP has the unique opportunity to work on special projects throughout the year, and these often turn into exhibitions, installations, or like last year, the "Inspired Georgia" book, which was a finalist for a Georgia Author of the Year award.

This year we've collaborated with the Atlanta Hawks in creating a celebratory exhibition of their photographer, Scott Cunningham, called "From the Baseline: 40 Years Beneath the Rim." While combing through Scott's archives, we saw many remarkable gems, often on medium-format transparency film. When was the last time you saw NBA action on a lightbox through a loupe?

Night after night, year after year, Scott Cunningham was there. Four decades spent below the baseline, his lens trained on the fast break coming toward him. His eyes scanning the court, seeing the pass before it happens, then sweeping up as the action rose to the rim. His remote backboard camera capturing the dunk's thunder, as his strobes in the rafters fired their lightning.

Cunningham's highlights are innumerable: core samples from an extraordinary career 40 years deep—half of it on film, half digital—but the same eye, always translating the moment into today's amazement. Always ready, waiting.

This Wilkins, this Whitney, this Michael, this Magic, each his; the work of a man seeking what tonight's battle might yield. To bring back uniqueness to share with the rest of us, something we might savor. Hawks and legends, late nights and fights. Know there was always another, always perfectly beyond the frame: Scott Cunningham. Not just another man behind a lens—a pure professional, sharing a vision of a lifetime.

ACP PUBLIC ART: THE FENCE

through Nov 2nd @ Atlanta BeltLine's Eastside Trail

ACP is pleased to once again present the FENCE, an outdoor photography exhibition featuring over 40 photographers from around the world that, through 6 images or less, are telling compelling stories that reach across cultural boundaries and geographical lines. For the last four years, Atlanta Celebrates Photography (ACP) has been a part of the FENCE project by exhibiting the 700+ foot long photo exhibition (juried by 40 jurors from a global call for entries) in partnership with Art on the Atlanta BeltLine.

This year the FENCE will be exhibited simultaneously in seven locations: Brooklyn, NY; Boston, MA; Denver, CO; Durham, NC; Houston, TX; Santa Fe, NM; and on the Atlanta BeltLine's Eastside Trail.

ACP's acclaimed public art program typically features temporary projects in a variety of diverse locations throughout Atlanta. It is significant in its ability to reach beyond the audience of traditional arts venues and expand the way audiences consider lend-based media.

ACP PUBLIC ART: THE GEORGIA FENCE

through Nov 02 @ Atlanta BeltLine's Westside Trail

Featuring work by Casey Brown, Blake Burton, Fernando Decillis, Andrew Feiler, Nick Gruenberg, Patrick Heagney, Kelly Kline, Paige McFall, Dorothy O'Connor, Michael Reese

Drawing on inspiration from the FENCE and also in collaboration with United Photo Industries, Atlanta Celebrates Photography created a Georgia- based photographers only FENCE that travelled the state in 2016. The GEORGIA FENCE was juried from a state-wide call for entries by Maria Kelly, formerly of the High Museum of Art, Carson Sanders and Taylor Curry of Aint-Bad Magazine, Mary Stanley of Mary Stanley Studio, Alan Rothschild of the Do Good Fund, Elan Buchen of the Atlanta BeltLine and Amy Miller of ACP. The exhibit features 10 notable Georgia photographers presented in a 250-foot long exhibition of outstanding photography that loosely fits the themes of: home, streets, people, creatures, nature and play.

After traveling to Thomasville, Columbus, Savannah and Gainesville in 2016, The GEORGIA FENCE comes back home to be exhibited on the Atlanta BeltLine's Westside Trail.

This project is possible through the generous support of the Forward Arts Foundation and Art on the Atlanta BeltLine program.

ACP OPEN EXHIBITION

September 30 - October 28 @ Binders Art Supplies

This is an opportunity for photographers of all ages and with all levels of experience to exhibit their work and to compete for prizes. You are invited to hang your best photo (the best you've ever taken or the best you've taken this week!)

The theme this year is What does giving back look like in my community?

Saturday, September 30 from 12-4PM

All photographers of all ages are invited to hang their best photo!

Only one unframed photograph per photographer. 8½ x 11 or smaller.
 Framed or matted photographs are not allowed.

Open for viewing, starting Sunday, October 1st.

An awards ceremony and reception will be Saturday, October 28th from 12-2pm.
 Photographs must be removed Saturday, October 28th 2pm - 5pm)

The general public, Elementary, Middle and High Schools and Senior Centers are encouraged to participate. Prizes will be awarded in 10 categories and will be judged by the staff of Creative Loafing.

Best Interpretation of the Theme: awarded by our partner Soul of Philanthropy (Winner gets to present his or her work at a public event at the Auburn Avenue Research Library in November, Gift Certificate for framing by ACP.)

ABOUT SOUL OF PHILANTHROPY:

Later this year Atlanta will host The Soul of Philanthropy, an exhibition dedicated to the tradition of African American philanthropy. The Soul of Philanthropy presents the stories of an unsung legacy of Black philanthropists, centuries-old cultural customs and beliefs about ingenious givers carving a way out of no way. The Soul of Philanthropy exhibition (#112) is free and open to the public, and will run from November 1, 2017 through January 22, 2018, at the Auburn Avenue Research Library.

ACP PUBLIC ART: EVERYDAY ATLANTA

Oct 01 @ MARTA Red Line

Oct 02-08 @ look for the Art Car

Featuring work by Everyday Atlanta Instagram Team, Riverwood High School Students, Tri-Cities High School Students

Everyday Africa is an Instagram feed with nearly 300k followers all over the world, started as a response to depictions in western media that told the same African narrative: Famine, poverty, disease and war. As journalists, EA's founders knew that photography (one of the tools used to create these stereotypes) could be used to tear them down, thus Everyday Africa was born. Everyday Africa's popularity has given rise to the international "Everyday Projects" umbrella.

Atlanta Celebrates Photography engaged the creators of Everyday Africa to help launch Everyday Atlanta. Working with Tri Cities High School in East Point and Riverwood High School in Dunwoody, students used photography to dispel myths and stereotypes about each other. Meanwhile, the Everyday Atlanta Instagram Team has prepared for the public launch of the Everyday Atlanta feed. The culmination of these efforts will be exhibited on a MARTA rail car. The Everyday Atlanta project provides a lens through which MARTA riders can examine their assumptions and consider that we have more in common than we do differences.

ACP and Everyday Atlanta are proud to be a part of the Everyday Projects family of global Instagram feeds working to create dialogue that grows our understanding of the world and each other.

In Partnership with: ArtBound, MARTA, Everywhere.EverydayProjects.org and sponsored by Wells Fargo.

ACP LECTURE SERIES PRESENTS: PETE SOUZA

October 3 @ Jimmy Carter Presidential Library

LECTURE

Tuesday, October 3, Doors open at 6:30PM, Lecture 7PM

TICKETS

Get your free tickets today: acpinfo.org/tickets

Pete Souza was the acclaimed Chief Official White House Photographer for President Obama and President Reagan. During Obama's eight years as president, Pete took close to two million photographs. To truly document both of the President's lives, Pete would take on the responsibility of attending every meeting the president was a part of, all the time. It was important for him to capture the president not just as a leader, but as a human being.

In addition to the national political scene, Pete has covered stories around the world. After 9/11, he was among the first journalists to cover the fall of Kabul, Afghanistan, after crossing the Hindu Kush Mountains by horseback in three feet of snow. Pete has appeared on ABC's 20-20, Dateline NBC, CBS Sunday Morning, NBC Nightly News, Fox News Sunday, and Fox Friends and Family.

Since "retirement" Pete Souza has become an Instagram sensation by quietly posting opportune images from his archive and has been working on a book to be released later this fall. He is currently a "free agent", hoping that the Boston Red Sox need a utility player in the coming season.

ACP SPECIAL EXHIBITION: TEEN SPIRIT

Oct 6, 5:30-8:30PM @ Brickworks Gallery

Oct 6, 6-8PM @ Atlanta School of Photography

EXHIBITION

Oct 6-28, both locations

Entering its 6th year, ACP's collaborative program with inpatient teens at Scottish Rite and Eggleston hospitals has impacted participants beyond everyone's expectations. Some very special volunteer photographers, led by ACP co-founder Corinne Adams, have been leading 400 teens a year to explore their identity (including or in spite of their diagnosis) through writing and photographic self-portraiture.

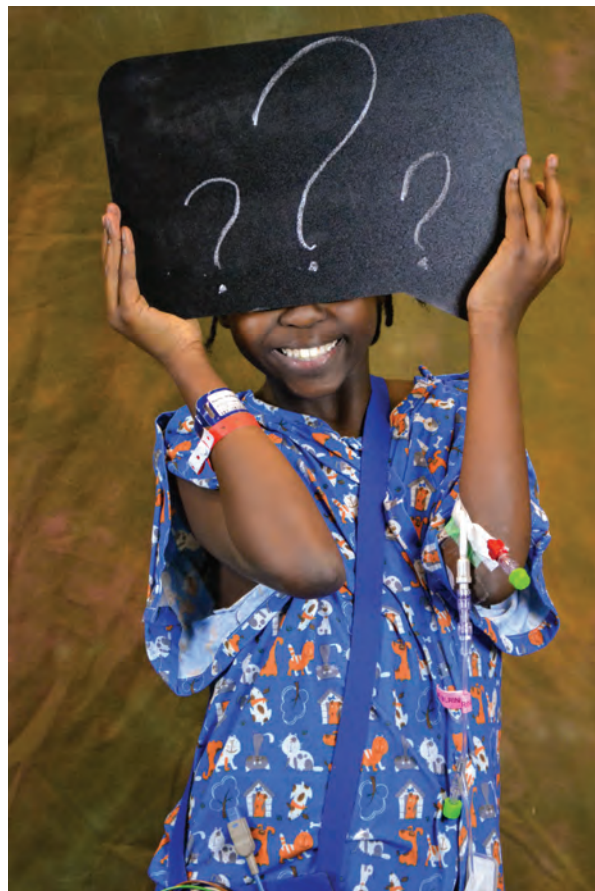

Special thanks to the Child Life Specialists at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta, Bill Boling, Charlotte Dixon, Digital Arts Studio, Atlanta School of Photography and Brickworks Gallery.

These simultaneous exhibitions highlight the powerful teen portraits and writings (Brickworks) as well as behind the scenes and hilarious outtakes (ASOP).

ACP LECTURE SERIES PRESENTS: MARILYN MINTER

October 12 @ Woodruff Arts Center - Rich Theatre

Thursday, October 12th. Doors open 6:30PM, lecture at 7PM

TICKETS

Get your free tickets today: acpinfo.org/tickets

Marilyn Minter (born 1948) is an American artist currently living and working in New York City.

Minter has been the subject of numerous group and solo exhibitions spanning the globe since 2005. In 2006, she was included in the Whitney Biennial. In 2010 her video Green Pink Caviar was exhibited in the lobby of MoMA and she collaborated with Creative Time to install billboards in New York City.

Throughout her career Minter's work has been given further substance by its engagement with private and public politics. Often, whether her work is seen as controversial or provocative depends on the political current of the moment. Recently she worked with Miley Cyrus and Marc Jacobs to produce a t-shirt to support Planned Parenthood. Minter has been active in feminist politics for over 20 years.

In addition to being an accomplished & published poet and contributing editor to numerous publications, Michael James O'Brien is currently Associate Chair of Photography at Savannah College of Art and Design in Atlanta. With an MFA from Yale University (he studied with Walker Evans!) O'Brien went on to be Associate Professor of Photography at Kenyon College before embarking on a tremendously successful career in commercial photography.

His work has appeared in too many publications to list here including The New Yorker, Rolling Stone, GQ, The New York Times Magazine, Interview, Elle Décor, Departures, Travel + Leisure, etc. His client list includes such illustrious names as Polo Ralph Lauren, Illy Caffè, Saks Fifth Avenue, Longchamps, Thierry Mugler, Nautica, Bergdorf Goodman and others.

From 1993 – 2003, O'Brien was commissioned by Matthew Barney to produce all still photography for "Drawing Restraint 7", and the "Cremaster" series 1,2,4 and 5. This work has been shown at the Musee Moderne, Paris, 2002, Guggenheim NY, 2003 & throughout the world. His work has been collected and included in exhibitions around the world for over 20 years. Most recently in the solo exhibition, "His Tender Heir" at The Gallery in Liverpool, UK (April 2017). O'Brien is represented by Holden Luntz Gallery in Palm Beach, FL.

ACP MARQUEE EVENT: JOHN WATERS "LOW DEFINITION"

October 20, 7PM @ Woodruff Arts Center - Rich Theater

LECTURE

Friday, Oct 20, Woodruff Arts Center - Rich Theatre

TICKETS (VIP TICKETS AVAILABLE)

Get your tickets today: acpinfo.org/tickets

John Waters gives us a tour of his art career and explains how he uses photography as a writing tool to create a whole new genre of clumsy "little movies" made up from the scraps of others. These kidnapped off the screen images refuse to be watched in a theater but must be hung on the wall to be seen for what they've hopefully become—tiny glimpses of failed cinematic perfection.

Over a career spanning four decades, Baltimore-based John Waters (b. 1946) has been a film director, screenwriter, actor, journalist, and visual artist. His photography, sculptures, and installations are not spared from his satirical directorial glare, as he re-edits and re-contextualizes iconic film imagery in an often hilarious queering of popular culture. Themes and motifs of provocation—race, sex, gender, consumerism, and religion—are unapologetically central to his practice, and presented with a brand of wit and cynicism that is uniquely John Waters.

In partnership with Mailchimp & Woodruff Arts Center.

Issa Touma is a self-taught photographer & Film director based in Aleppo. His work can be found in several international collections, including the Victoria & Albert Museum in London & FOMU Museum in Antwerp. His movie "9 Days from my window in Aleppo" was awarded Best Short Film by the European Film Awards; Best Short Film at the London Film Festival and the Tribute Award at the International Short Film Festival in New York. "9 Days from my window in Aleppo" been shown in more than 60 festivals and around 50 cultural activities around the world. His new movie "Greetings from Aleppo" opened the International Film Festival of Rotterdam in 2017 and won a DIG AWARD in Italy.

In 2012, shortly after the outbreak of the Syrian civil war, Touma's organization Le Pont, initiated Art Camping for Syrian refugees and citizens of Aleppo. This unique collaborative project, whose participants come from different religious and ethnic backgrounds, attempts to foster resistance to political and religious radicalism through artistic interventions and cultural dialogue. Currently, Touma is an artist in residence at the Swedish city of Gävle with a scholarship from ICORN | international cities of refuge network.

Like what you see?

As a small nonprofit, ACP relies on the support of generous folks who understand the importance of arts and culture, and who want to live in a city where things like the ACP Festival exist. We assume that means you would like to see us thrive into our 20th year. You may think you can't give enough to make a difference, but EVERY tax-deductible gift makes a huge difference...and we thank you.

It's easy: Click "SUPPORT" at ACPinfo.org

Or mail a check to:

ACP is a nonprofit 501(c)3, and your donation is tax deductible as allowed by law.

"ACP has helped to build and expose an even larger audience for the medium in our region. I think the wonderful inclusiveness of ACP's festival has unlocked the potential within photography to be both accessible and profound, and to speak to a wide range of audiences."

Atlanta Weekend Master Class

NOVEMBER 3, 2017 – NOVEMBER 5, 2017

Introducing Mark Maio & KEH Camera Partnership

As a KEH customer since 1980, I am excited to partner with them as Corporate Ambassador. Over the years, I have sent numerous friends and colleagues to KEH to sell and buy equipment. Not one of them has had a negative experience. That commitment to treating the customer in a fair and honest way makes it easy for me to attach my name and reputation to the company. I look forward to working with professional photographers and organizations to find ways to add to and benefit the photographic community.

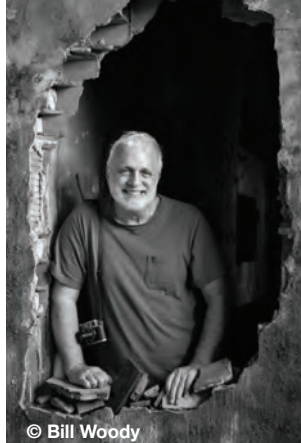

The Personal Photographic Project Workshop

Do you have groups of photographs that seem connected but you're not sure how? Do you find yourself making technically sound photographs that don't seem to say anything? Have you been working on a personal project but need to finish it for exhibition or publication?

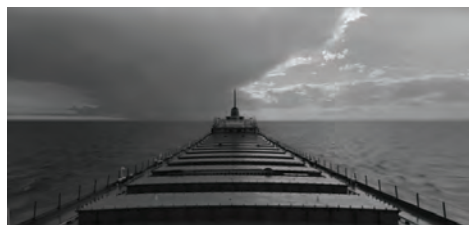

Join Mark for this weekend workshop as he shares insights and information on how he has overcome these challenges and others in his work.

The workshop, limited to twelve participants, will provide a relaxed and friendly atmosphere where the group can engage in direct and sometimes blunt discussion, connecting to our work and each other without the distractions of everyday life. Photographers at any level of experience are invited to participate with the only requirement being the desire of taking your photography to the next level.

Visit workshops.keh.com/pppw to register and for more information.

About Mark Maio

Mark Maio has over 45 years of experience in the field of photography as both a fine art photographer and an internationally recognized expert in the field of imaging in ophthalmology. He has held positions at Emory University in Atlanta, Rochester Institute of Technology and at the State University of New York at Buffalo as an Assistant Professor of Ophthalmology. Mark conducts fine art photography workshops across the US and at his second home on the Isle of Skye, Scotland. A (12) print portfolio from one of the projects he will discuss during the workshop is in the permanent collection of the George Eastman House International Museum of Photography.
