Experience the largest annual community-based photography festival in the United States!

"There are so many events. I just don't know where to start." We've heard that more than a few times, and we're here to make it easier for you. To customize your experience at ACP, visit us online at festivalguide2018.acpinfo.org to view our digital guide. Love black-and-white photography? Documentary storytelling? Films or artist talks? Search our digital guide using keywords to narrow your search and find exactly what you want.

Another simplified way to experience the festival is with our iPhone app (free in the app store). See what is happening near you today, tomorrow, or whenever you're available. Don't pass up on the largest annual photo festival in the country. With more than 100 photo-related events and exhibitions, there are plenty of ways to celebrate photography in Atlanta.

- Featured ACP Events highlighted on pages 22-38
- All ACP Festival events are listed chronologically in the main section of the guide
- Calendar at the front of the Guide is the most comprehensive display of all ACP events for planning your ACP Festival adventures.

Rebel Rebel

Sept. 27–Nov. 2, 2018

Inspired by David Bowie's singular vision of glam and visual excess, Rebel Rebel exudes unexpected viewpoints captured in SCAD student and alumni fashion photography. Featuring more than 30 works, the exhibition highlights innovative and surprising approaches to the medium.

Reception: Thursday, Oct. 4 | 5–7 p.m.

The reception is free and open to the public.

Celebrating 20 years of acp

© ANDERSON SCOTT

Hard to believe that ACP has been around for 20 years – and it seems that with each passing year there has never been a more exciting time to be involved with photography than the present. It is easy to take something as ubiquitous as photography for granted. In my opinion, photography has notched up a few places in its importance in our lives and on the world stage recently.

As an organization that aims to celebrate the roles that photography plays in each of our lives, we are cognizant of the risk in trying to be all things to all people, but there are still stones left unturned!

Atlanta has changed in the last 20 years – there is so much to do here, and so much competing for people's attention and free time. We see this as a challenge to continue to deliver meaningful programs, and to listen to our audience. In 2017, we conducted focus groups and surveys to hear what you have to say. Your feedback informed the programming you'll find in the 2018 ACP Festival. We hope you'll join us as we celebrate some fresh new voices, some revered masters of the medium, and our 20th birthday!

Amy Miller
Executive Director, ACP

It's been an action-packed 20 years as I've watched ACP grow from a newborn baby into a feisty young adult. The co-founders (and all the nurturers along the way) dreamt of a vibrant photographic community, and now ACP has become the largest annual photo festival in the country!

And still, we progress by leaps and bounds. You, who love photography, are carrying the dream forward. ACP is YOUR festival, and the support, passion, and creativity you put into it make all the difference. Let's do 20 more years and then some!

Corinne Adams
ACP Co-founder

Artful Impact

For over two decades, ACP has made photography matter in Atlanta.

For the past 20 years, Atlanta Celebrates Photography, Atlanta's enduring and influential homegrown photography festival, has brought an impressive roster of photographers to Atlanta, keeping the city abreast of what is new, important, and interesting in the medium. It's a roll call of some of the contemporary art world's brightest lights: Gregory Crewdson, Larry Sultan, Emmet Gowin, Lalla Essaydi, Lorna Simpson, Deborah Willis, Tierney Gearon.

But it's not just about the big names. Over its influential 20-year history, ACP has been about the more subtle triumphs, too: the ability of art to impact and create change for people from all walks of life. "In fact, we are now the largest community-based photo festival in the country—something I could never have imagined," says ACP co-founder Corinne Adams.

What began as a festival geared toward photographers has morphed into something far less niche, says Adams. "Who isn't impacted by photography today? It is the medium of our intimate and working lives. We are impacted by photography with every blink of our eyes."

Executive director Amy Miller sees ACP's mission as continually focused on bringing photography to as diverse an audience as possible: "young and old, selfie-sharer and gear-head, industry insider to casual photography lover."

ACP OPEN EXHIBITION, 2015

While imprinting the city with photography's vitality, ACP has helped put Atlanta on the national photography map, elevating what was once considered a hobby to the conceptual and formal equal to painting or sculpture. The High Museum of Art's assistant curator of photography Gregory Harris echoes the fundamental role ACP has played in defining Atlanta as a photography town, not just locally but nationally. "Beyond Atlanta, the festival gives people from across the country a peek into all the ways—from artists, museums and galleries, collectors, and publishers—that the city contributes to the wider conversations around photography."

Harris remembers, even as an outsider, how vital the Atlanta photo scene appeared and the critical role ACP played in that perception. "I first came to Atlanta in 2014 to review portfolios when I was a curator in Chicago. I was blown away by how much was happening here and the high quality of the work being done. I likely would not have had the occasion to experience Atlanta's wonderful photography community had it not been for ACP."

THE FENCE, 2016

What to Expect at this Year's Fest

Innovation, inclusivity, and influential artists.

Along with a relief from punishing heat and the beginning of the holiday season and pumpkin spice everything, for Atlantans, fall may forever be synonymous with photography thanks to the annual Atlanta Celebrates Photography event, inaugurated in 1998.

"October sometimes feels like the one month of the year that we gallerists, arts professionals, and artists are able to connect with how vibrant and enormous this city's photography scene is, make new contacts, and encourage the discovery of new work," says Jackson Fine Art gallery owner Anna Walker Skillman.

In its ongoing effort to reach across the city and speak to artists, collectors, and photo fans of every stripe, the 20th anniversary Atlanta Celebrates Photography is notable for its inclusiveness. This year will feature a photographic exploration of well-being presented at The Woodruff Arts Center that brings together elderly residents of the senior community Lenbrook and chronically ill teenagers at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta in visual dialogue. "I would say that this portrait project most embodies the prime importance of ACP—people using photography to explore their world, express who they are in it, and find meaning in the midst of 'life,'" says one of ACP's founders, Corinne Adams.

On the innovation end, also featured this year are the astounding photos created by the interaction of chemicals and nature in University of Georgia-educated photographer Meghann Riepenhoff's cyanotypes, in which images are made by immersing photographic paper in bodies of water, charting a river or the ocean's ebb and flow.

Big names also are in the mix at this year's ACP, including a documentary screening devoted to one of the 20th century's most influential photographers who shot more than a million photographs in his lifetime and helped define the look of the '50s and '60s in Garry Winogrand: All Things Are Photographable, featuring an intro and talk-back with director Sasha Waters Fryer. And for marquee value, it's hard to go bigger than Annie Leibovitz, undoubtedly the leading celebrity photographer in the world, who will speak about her career creating iconic, career-defining images of the famous and the infamous, celebrities, politicians, and heads of state in the pages of Vanity Fair, Rolling Stone, and Vogue at the Cobb Energy Performing Arts Centre in conjunction with the release of her book Annie Leibovitz: At Work.

ACP PUBLIC ART: THE FENCE

Through Nov 01 @ Piedmont Park Dog Park

Featuring work by Georgia photographers Daniel Edwards, Raymond McCrea Jones, Dale Niles, and 38 artists from around the world

Bring your dog!

ACP is pleased to once again present The FENCE, the largest public photo exhibition in North America! This outdoor exhibition features over 40 photographers from around the world who are telling compelling stories that reach across cultural boundaries and geographical lines. For the last five years, Atlanta Celebrates Photography (ACP) has been a part of The FENCE project by exhibiting the 700+ foot-long photo exhibition (juried by 40 jurors from a global call for entries) in Atlanta.

This year, The FENCE will be exhibited simultaneously in eight locations: Brooklyn, NY; Boston, MA; Denver, CO; Durham, NC; Santa Fe, NM; Sarasota, FL; Calgary, Canada, and in Atlanta at the Piedmont Park Dog Park!

ACP's acclaimed public art program features temporary projects in a variety of diverse locations. It is significant in its ability to reach beyond the audience of traditional arts venues and expand the way audiences consider photography.

ACP LECTURE SERIES | ART PAPERS LIVE | SPELMAN COLLEGE MUSEUM OF FINE ART PRESENTS: ZANELE MUHOLI

September 14 @ Spelman College Museum of Fine Art

ARTIST'S TALK

Friday, September 14, doors at 6:30PM, talk at 7PM

TICKETS

Reserve your free tickets today: acpinfo.org/tickets

Photographer and visual activist Zanele Muholi, will be in conversation with Renee Mussai, curator of Zanele Muholi: Somnyama Ngonyama, Hail the Dark Lioness. Muholi, whose preferred pronouns are they and them, uses their body as a canvas to confront the politics of race and representation in the visual archive. Muholi's psychologically charged portraits are unapologetic in their directness as they explore different archetypes, personal and collective histories, contemporary politics, and global events. Zanele Muholi: Somnyama Ngonyama, Hail the Dark Lioness is organized by Autograph, London, and curated by Renee Mussai.

Partnerships: Mailchimp, Art Papers Live, Spelman College Museum of Fine Art in conjunction with Zanele Muholi: Somnyama Ngonyama, Hail the Dark Lioness on view at Spelman College Museum of Fine Art, September 14 - December 8. (Please see listing #070.)

ACP SPECIAL EXHIBITIONS: THROUGH THE LENS OF WELL-BEING

Sept 22, 11am @ The Woodruff Arts Center

ARTIST'S RECEPTION

Sept 22 11:00AM - 1:00PM

EXHIBITION

Sept 18 - Sep 29

Free and open to the public. Bring the family!

There are seven domains of well-being: Identity, Growth, Autonomy, Security, Connectedness, Meaning, and Joy.

Two unique groups of people; senior residents of Lenbrook (a Life Plan community) and inpatient teenagers at two Children's Healthcare of Atlanta hospitals — are embracing portrait photography to explore well-being. What gives all people a sense of well-being is unique to the individual. While it may seem that these teenage and senior lives have nothing in common, the domains of well-being are exactly the same!

Atlanta Celebrates Photography is proud to partner with two of the most inspirational groups of people — the residents of Lenbrook and inpatient teens at Egleston and Scottish Rite Children's Hospitals for Transformations Through the Lens of Well-being. Please join us to celebrate this interactive exhibition where we can all be inspired to celebrate the seven domains of well-being in our own lives.

Partnerships: The Woodruff Arts Center, Lenbrook, Scottish Rite and Egleston Children's Hospitals, Digital Arts Studio

LOCATION

The Woodruff Arts Center - Beauchamp Carr Gallery
1280 Peachtree St NE, Atlanta, GA 30309

ACP SPECIAL EXHIBITION: PICTURING JUSTICE

Oct 3 - Nov 30th @ Atlanta Legal Aid Society

RECEPTION

October 3, 6-8PM

Featuring work by: Dustin Chambers, Daniel Edwards, Melissa Golden, Andrew Lichtenstein, Robin Rayne, Beate Sass

The core of Legal Aid's mission is to help low-income people navigate the complexities of the court system at the most vulnerable times in their lives. Legal Aid's clients face evictions, health crises, foreclosure, domestic violence, education issues, and consumer challenges that can only be solved with the help of a lawyer.

During its nine-decade history, Legal Aid represented Cuban refugees held without due process in the Atlanta federal penitentiary, coined the term predatory lending, pioneered legal services for people with AIDS and cancer, established the first medical-legal collaborative serving children in the Southeast, and won a landmark Supreme Court case on behalf of people with disabilities.

Picturing Justice is an annual exhibition that explores how photography can illuminate the human stories that live behind such common shorthand as "case", "client" or "issue" so we can better experience, empathize, and advocate for the lives that are improved by this important work.

This year's Picturing Justice features a group exhibition as well as a photo-essay created by photographer Melissa Golden and writer Robin McDonald for the Bitter Southerner, an incredible multimedia magazine telling real stories about the American South.

Partnerships: ACP is proud to work with the Bitter Southerner and Fall Line Press to further the work of Atlanta Legal Aid.

October 9, 7PM @ Landmark's Midtown Art Cinema

TICKETS

Reserve your free tickets today: acpinfo.org/tickets

FILM SCREENING

Tuesday, Oct 9, 7PM

Featuring work by Garry Winogrand. Directed by: Sasha Waters Freyer

Artist. Iconoclast. Man of his time. Garry Winogrand was the epic photographer of 20th century American life. Decades before digital technology transformed how we make and see pictures, American photographer Garry Winogrand made hundreds of thousands of them with his 35mm Leica, creating an encyclopedic portrait of America from the late 1950s to the early 1980s. When he died suddenly at age 56 in 1984, Winogrand left behind more than 10,000 rolls of film - more than a quarter of a million pictures! These images, as well as hours of never before seen 8mm films, capture a bygone era.

Garry Winogrand: All Things are Photographable is the first cinematic survey of that legacy. The film tells the story of an artist whose rise and fall was — like America's in the late decades of the 20th century — larger-than-life, full of contradictions, and totally unresolved. The film also uses newly discovered audio cassette tapes of private conversations between Winogrand and photographer Jay Maisel recorded in 1977.

Join us as the film's director Sasha Waters Freyer introduces the film and leads a talkback session afterwards.

CONFERENCE

Friday, October 19

TICKETS

Registration is full for this year's conference. Please join the ACP email list to make sure you receive registration opportunities in the future.

ACP took a year off to talk to photographers and find out what they might like in terms of professional development workshops — beyond the Portfolio Review — that might enable a serious photographer to take their mindset, skills, and career to the next level. We heard you, and we've put together such an outstanding roster of talent that we can hardly believe it ourselves!

Photographers have come from all over to learn from the best industry professionals in the country in small workshops, master-classes and one-on-one consultations. This is life-changing stuff right here!

Workshop leaders:

Holly Andres - Award-winning Fine Art Photographer

Derek Blanks - Fashion, Editorial, and Celebrity Photographer, Videographer

Matt Eich - Documentary, Editorial, and Fine Art Photographer

Featuring work by: Society for Motion Picture Still Photographers Members

SMPSP stands for "Society for Motion Picture Still Photographers." Otherwise known as "unit photographers", these artists capture moments amid a film set's chaos, document behind the scenes and create publicity shots that get seen by millions. Often, the iconic image from a film we conjure up from our memory is a still photograph taken by one of these photographers, and doesn't appear in the film at all!

The important role of these men and women are recognized by the SMPSP, which promotes the "archival preservation of still pictures shot during the production of motion pictures for their historical and cultural importance."

Join us as we celebrate the exciting world of filmmaking, and the unique perspectives of these photographers in the first-ever exhibition celebrating SMPSP in Atlanta.

Deana Lawson is an American artist, educator, and photographer whose work revolves primarily around issues of intimacy, family, spirituality, sexuality, and Black aesthetics. Lawson makes portraits of black people in South Carolina, Swaziland, Jamaica, and Soweto, South Africa, as well as around her own Brooklyn neighborhood. She confronts viewers with a complex, densely layered, multifaceted vision of black identity, as embodied by strangers and neighbors alike, with whom she has established an intense rapport, however brief.

Lawson was awarded the Aaron Siskind Foundation's Individual Photographer's Fellowship grant, 2008-2009 and a Guggenheim Fellowship in 2013. In 2017, her work was featured in the Whitney Biennial. Her photographs have been exhibited in a number of museums and galleries including the Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum of American Art, and the Art Institute of Chicago. She is based in Brooklyn, New York.

Like what you see?

We will be honest...we have to raise every single dime, every year, and it is not easy. If you are reading this page you are somewhat of a fan of ACP. We assume that means you would like to see us thrive well beyond our 20th year. You may think you can't give enough to make a difference, but you would be wrong. EVERY tax-deductible gift makes a huge difference...and we THANK YOU.

It's easy: Click "DONATE" at ACPinfo.org

ACP is a nonprofit 501(c)3, and your donation is tax deductible as allowed by law.

"ACP has helped to build and expose an even larger audience for the medium in our region. I think the wonderful inclusiveness of ACP's festival has unlocked the potential within photography to be both accessible and profound, and to speak to a wide range of audiences."

—Brett Abbott, former Keough Family Curator of Photography & Head of Collections, High Museum of Art

20 YEARS OF ATLANTA CELEBRATES PHOTOGRAPHY

Atlanta Celebrates Photography aims to make Atlanta a leading center for the world's fastest growing art form by providing experiences that educate, engage and inspire diverse audiences

ACP is celebrating 20 years of bringing high-quality programming and events to our great city:

- The largest annual community-based photo festival in the country, every October
- Over 2,260 events at 2,246 participating locations*
- Showcasing the work of over 8,550 photographers at events that are free and open to the public
- Presenting 19 Public Art projects featuring 300 artists (including the FENCE at Piedmont Park)
- Conducting workshops helping over 600 photographers increase skills and make industry connections
- Teaching photographic portraiture and writing to 2,000 teens at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta Hospitals *Numbers are cumulative over 20 years.

Atlanta Celebrates Photography is a non-profit arts organization dedicated to the cultivation of the photographic arts and the enrichment of the Atlanta Community.
